CONTESTS FOR THE PRIZES

By Individuals and Classes .-- Beautiful Exhibition of Wand Exercises by all the Turners. Concert Last Evening.

Yesterday, though nominally the second day of the thirteenth annual Bezirks Turnfest of the Pittsburgh district, really opened the fest proper. It was a busy day for the Turners. The enly drawbacks were the heavy rain which interrupted the exercises in the fatternoon, and the fact that the people the attractiveness of the exercises. The the city generally did not appreciate the attractiveness of the exercises.—The same skill and agility, the same pictureque performances, under a circus canvas, would pack the biggest tent ever larnum owned, while yesterday not a thousand auditors were present all told. This is not as it should be, but the people who missed the exercises were the greatest losirs.

All were awake early yesterday morning. At 5 o'clock breakfast was served on the ground. Good, substantial food was furnished in abundance, and the way it disappeared spoke volumes for the vigorous lives the young athletes lead. The meals are spread in the airy and neat new building west of the main hall, which is very well suited for the purpose. Breakfast was taken to the operal louse band. year are $4,100,000, as against $4,185,728 05 for last year, making a net decrease in expenses of $85,728 05.

The costs of collection are about 2.87 per cent of the total amount collected. This is by far the lowest rate reached since the reorganization of the bureau, except during the years 1805, 60 and 67, when very large amounts were being collected. Since that time the costs of collection have ranged from 6 per cent to 3 20 per cent. It has appeared heretofore that the costs of collection have increased proportionately with the total amount collected. This year makes a reverse showing. The cost has decreased. Had the expenses for the past year maintained the same ratio (3.20 per year maintained the same ratio (3.20 per cent) as in past years, the costs would have been $4,563,030 29, instead of $4,100,000. dented increase shows not only that the business of the country is growing, but that the revenue is being carefully collected. There has been an increase from every source of taxation except from oleomargarine. By reason of the stringent prohibitory laws passed by many of the States, and the unusually low price of butter, the sale of oleomargarine has diminished.

Nearly every district in the United States has increased its collections. The total amount collected in West Virginia for the year was $904,059 97, as against a

The Chief of Police was requested to notify the Board of infractions of the same law in the city, and the town authorities were requested to report on the sanitary condition of their respective towns.

Messrs, Howard and Stein and Dr. Myers were appointed a committee to formulate rulers for the government of the Board.

Dr. Garrison was then invited to address the Board.

Dr. Garrison was then invited to address the Board, and did so, as follows:

Gentlemen:—I am here in reply to the courteous note of your president, on the previous game that Wheeling Dr. Myers, which I received yesterday. First, I desire to thank you on behalf of the people of this city for the prompt action following my request for a hearing before your board. Accumulations conservation of the life and health of learn people than now. Accumulations of decaying garbage upon back lots, alleys, and the banks of the river and creek; the drainage from Fulton, including the offal from slaughtered cattle, ocarried through the city in Wheeling treek, which at times has not sufficient water to drain to the river; stagmant to pools of filth on vacant lots in portions of the city, especially on the oatskirts, and in some instances even extending to life streets and alleys; privy vaults and cesspools overflowing for lack of facilitation for the city of the city, and and saturated with the slimes of a half addren or more sewers, extending from pessionce.

This condition of things is not new, and as a result typhoid fever has been present in this cky for many years. The first death occurring from that disease in this city of which I have any account was in 1840. Since that time it has exhibited variable latality, and for a time was confined principally to the fall and winter months, occasionally running into the spring, but latterly doing its work of death in every month of the year. The period over which we have any accurate account of its ravages extends from 1873 to the present time. From January, 1873, to December 31, 1889, a period of seventeen years, there were recorded 624 deaths from typhoid fever, an average of a little less than 37 deaths per annum the lowest number in any one year being thirteen in 1877, and the maximum reached in 1882 the number in that year being seventy.

The very 1890 is destined to be a second of the present time.

The rather novel sight of a street car on fire was witnessed by peeple on Market street, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second, Monday night. The car came round the Twenty-second street corner in a very orderly manner, but when half way up the square a bright flame shot out from among the gearing produced and street flame shot out from among the gearing produced and $1.
